

As a former Vietnam Veteran (U.S. Navy 1969 to 1979), it troubles me to learn that the Smith brothers, owners of Sinclair broadcasting, who are all about my age and who never served in Vietnam would this day attempt to distort the service record of a decorated veteran and presume to call it news.

It bothers me that they would pre-empt regular broadcasting to have their news department air a so called documentary.

It bothers me that the FCC would sanction this as an act of free speech.

If big corporations like Sinclair Broadcasting can get away with this under the protection of the FCC, then I fear my government is turning into a form of facsism.

If the FCC can't put a stop to this, who can?

I've done my job. Please do your job.

Respectfully,
Thomas Anthony Hart
